

5. The 100 self-sufficiency ratio of exports indicates how much more an export sells for than the domestic price of a product. Exporters benefit as self-sufficiency increases and prices of exports are increased. A self-sufficiency of more than 100 means that a good is exported. Importers can help lower the ratio.